

MISS KETTLEHUT IS WINNER OF TITLE OF "MISS ANTIOCH" AT AMERICAN LEGION FESTIVAL

Juanita Nickerson and Florence Nevelier Are Second and Third.

FESTIVAL PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Miss Helen Kettlehut was named "Miss Antioch" last Sunday night at the close of the Bathing Beauty contest which was the feature of the first annual summer festival held at the Antioch Palace under the auspices of the local American Legion Post. Miss Juanita Nickerson of Lake Villa was second and Miss Florence Nevelier of Antioch, third. "Miss Antioch" was given the first prize of $50 in cash and will be entered in the big contest at the Waukegan festival. Miss Nickerson, winner of second place, received a fitted week end bag and Miss Nevelier a combination purse and vanity bag.

Judges' Selection Popular

In the selection of Miss Kettlehut, the judges, S. E. Pollock, L. O. Bright and H. J. Vos, made a decision which was popular with the crowd. Miss Kettlehut scored the highest number of points, being nearest to the standard measurements for the perfect figure.

Miss Kettlehut has bobbed hair and is twenty years old. She is five feet two inches tall and weighs 99½ pounds. She is not the "fapper type" but won the approval of the crowd and the judges because of her naturalness, grace, and ease.

Did Not Expect to Win

"Miss Antioch" is very modest over her victory. "If you do not expect to much, you are not apt to be disappointed," she said when asked if she had expected to win.

Miss Kettlehut is an Antioch girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Kettlehut.

"Miss Liberty" To Be Chosen

Besides the $50 awarded by the Antioch Legion Post, Miss Kettlehut won the opportunity of competing for the title of "Miss Liberty" at Waukegan during the Summer Festival to be held September 2nd to 5th. There Miss Kettlehut will compete with the winners from North Chicago and Waukegan. Following the original plan of the American Legion post to select entries from more than one place, it is probable that Miss Nickerson will be entered in the final big show as "Miss Lake Villa." The prize in this contest is $250, besides very attractive contracts for stage work.

Festival Big Success

The festival which featured the Beauty Contest, was a big success, providing amusement for and attracting large crowds for three evenings, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 19th, 20th and 21st. It netted the Legion post a nice sum which will go into the building fund. It was so successful that the Legion plan to make it an annual event.

Groom Cedar Crest for Reception of Gene

Cedar Crest club, south of Antioch on Route 59, has been the scene of much activity during the week when preparations have been rushed for the reception of Gene Tunney, the world's heavyweight champion who is to arrive there next week to train for the big bout at Soldier's Field September 22.

Activities this week include the building of the ring, putting in shower baths, preparing quarters for newspaper men, and putting everything in readiness generally for the throngs who will visit the camp and for the favored few who will be a part of the Tunney party.

Tunney has been doing his preliminary stuff at Speculator, N. Y., and is expected to arrive here next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Schilke entertained Mr. and Mrs. Allen and family last Sunday.

U. S. Battery Here Today Enroute To Camp at Ft. Sheridan

There was sound of cavalry and tramping feet in Antioch this morning when U. S. Battery 14 passed through. The battery, which consisted of three companies with complete field equipment, were returning after a nine day field maneuver to Ft. Sheridan where they are encamped. They came into Antioch from the west along the newly completed Lake street pavement to Victoria street, and after stopping there to water their horses, turned down Victoria to Harden streets and proceeded along Route to 21.

The end of the day's march will be Grayslake, where they intend to encamp for the night. The battery arrived about 10 o'clock and were about an hour in passing through Antioch. This is one of the batteries from the Citizen's Military Training camp at Ft. Sheridan.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING MEET COMING AT BIG WAUKEGAN FESTIVAL

Star Swimmers From All of the Big Amateur Clubs to Perform

The largest woman's amateur swimming meet ever held in the middle west will take place during the 3rd Annual Summer Festival at Waukegan, September 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th under the auspices of the American Legion.

Swimming teams competing will be the Women's Swimming Association of New York, Illinois Women's Athletic club of Chicago, Bellfuss Natatorium, Hirsch Center of Chicago and possibly the Detroit Women's Aquatic club, Milwaukee Aquatic club and the Hoosier Aquatic club of Indianapolis.

Paving on Wis. 83 Completed--Open To Travel Labor Day

Cement pouring was completed on the last stretch of Wisconsin 83 last Friday and the road will be open to the public on Labor Day.

The last section of the road to be paved lying between Salem and Brass Hall corners connects the Salem road and Illinois route 21 running through Antioch with the Kenosha-Lake Geneva road and will open up one of the most important arteries of traffic in the region.

The work of putting in the shoulders is well under way and it is anticipated that it will be completed in time for the Labor Day opening.

NORTH SHORE ROUTES TUNNEY VISITORS TO CEDAR CREST

Will Run Fleet of Special Busses to Accomodate Fight Fans

The itinerary for the North Shore special busses enroute to the Tunney training camp at Cedar Crest Country club south of Antioch on Route 59 has been decided upon. The fight fans traveling from Chicago over that line will take the elevated to Libertyville and will be met there by a fleet of the company's motor busses which will make through runs direct to the training camp.

Those coming from Milwaukee and points on the north shore will be routed through Waukegan and connect with busses at Edison court. Milwaukee avenue will be the route used by autoists from Chicago, and Green Bay road and Grand avenue for those coming from the north.

It is understood that the Milwaukee and St. Paul line is also planning on running special trains to Fox Lake for the accommodation of the fans. It is estimated that many thousands of people will make the pilgrimage to the Antioch camp during the final training period and the transportation agencies plan to provide fast and convenient transportation for them.

Cop Speeds Departing Guest With An Early Hearing Before Judge

Joseph Kachner of Waukegan, who had been housed in the local jail Saturday night on a charge of driving a machine while drunk and speeding on Main street, was all set Sunday morning, having pried off lock to his cell to take his departure without the formality of a trial. Suddenly a new chapter in the story was written by Motor Cop Frank Valenta who stood at the front door and nabbed the departing guest and completed the plot as originally planned by taking him before Justice Tarbell. There he was fined $150 and costs. Lacking the necessary funds he was forced to sojourn in the county jail where he will serve out his sentence.

style. Ethel McGary of the same club, who also broke all records in that race, with attempt to break the record in the National Mile Swim.

The National Medley Relay Team of the Illinois Women's Athletic club will attempt to break their record in the Medley Swim. Another special feature will be a 100-yard back stroke race.

Events for Men Also

Among the stars in the men's swimming events who will also be present and give exhibitions during the festival are:

Wally Colbath, Northwestern University National Intercollegiate diving champion.

Bill O'Brien, Illinois Athletic Club, former intercollegiate diving champion.

Eldor Halverson, Chicago, A. A. Central A. A. U. diving champion.

Cecil McDermott, I. A. A. C. Red Brady, I. A. S. Stubby Byler, Chicago, A. A.

MAYORS TO TOUR FOX RIVER AND THE CHAIN OF LAKES SUNDAY

See Solution of New Dam Problem Through Inspection Trip

At the invitation of Mayor P. W. Frett of McHenry, the mayors of the villages and cities in the Chain of Lakes and Fox River region will make a tour of the lake and river next Sunday August 28th. The object of the tour will be to investigate conditions relative to the building of the new $175,000 dam for the control of the Fox system.

The plans for the trip were developed at a meeting of the Fox river and lakes citizens held at McHenry last Monday night for the purpose of discussing the location of the new dam and the drainage and water level problems involved. At that time it was decided that a trip through the territory which the dam would control would be interesting and informative, particularly to the mayors of villages and cities in the south who are less informed than those present at the meeting as to drainage conditions in the upper Fox river and lakes.

The location of the new dam became a question in the lakes and river region when the last legislature appropriated $175,000 for the erection of a dam to maintain the necessary water levels in the lakes region and upper Fox. The problem is one of great significance, involving control of property values, and maintenance of satisfactory drainage and sanitary conditions as well as spring flood conditions in southern Illinois and the Mississippi valley.

VALUE OF COUNTY CROP DECREASES

Only Increase Is in Hay Crops— Livestock also Shows Decrease Over Last Year

That the gross value of the crops and livestock raised in Lake county decreased last year by nearly $250,000 was shown in a report recently made public by A. J. Sauratt agricultural statistician for the state of Illinois. The largest slump in the county's total crop value was in corn, with winter wheat also showing a loss. Tame hay and oats showed slight increases over 1926.

The total valuation of the more important crops in the county is quoted as $3,051,000 and of the livestock as $2,524,100. Last years crops were figured at $3,121,500 and the livestock at $2,695,300.

The total gross farm value of the more important Illinois crops produced during the 1926 season was $372,849,000 a decrease of about 15.5 per cent or $65,000,000 from the 1925 total of $447,849,000. Most of the decreased value came in corn, winter wheat, oats, broom corn and apples, whose combined decreased valuation was $79,000,000.

As usual, corn leads all other Illinois crops in value, being estimated at $175,263,000 or 47 percent of the total value of all crops. Tame hay is second, at $58,640,000. Winter wheat, third, at $47,499,000 and oats, fourth, at $43,231,000.

Judges Meet Today to Advise in Fox Conservancy Boundary Dispute

A survey of the sanitary conditions of the Fox River Conservancy district is now complete and plans are being made to utilize the resources of the various communities in the valley of the Fox to the best advantage. The report of the engineer, E. R. Hansen of the firm of Pearce, Greeley and Hansen of Chicago, was heard before the meeting of the Conservancy board at Geneva Monday, at which Mr. J. C. James, local member of the board was in attendance.

At present, the boundary of the district is in question, dispute arising in Aurora and in Plano where the case has been brought before the court of LaSalle county. According to the terms of the law creating the district all or none of every incorporated city must be included.

Portable Building To Be Added To Grade School Equipment

Plans for the erection of a temporary building to be used as an annex to the Antioch Grade school building were completed this week. The building will be a one room portable school 22 x 28 ft with a covered runway connecting it with the main building. Fred Hawkins, chairman of the building and grounds committee of the grade school board, reports that contracts will be let this week and the work will be rushed to completion so that the room may be in use as soon after school opens as possible.

The board decided upon the erection of the new school room when it was learned that there would be more than 60 pupils enrolled in the first and second grades this fall. The increased enrollment will necessitate the employment of an additional teacher for second grade work.

Much Paving Progress Made on Depot St.

Work on the Depot street paving has progressed to the point where the north half of the street from Main to North avenue has been opened to traffic. Operations are being rushed on the street and will soon be complete.

With Center street completed and Victoria and Harden streets thrown open to traffic, work on the various projects in the village is nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thiemann motored to Aurora Sunday where they spent the day with Mrs. Thiemann's mother, Clayton O'Haver who has been visiting there for some time returned home with them.

STATE ASKED TO PAVE LAST SECTOR IN HIGHWAY 59

Delay Thought to be Due to Misunderstanding— Hope for Action

That progress had been made in the effort to secure the immediate completion of the paving on route 59 where a gap between the Harden and Naher properties is yet to be finished, was the hope of a group of local people who met Monday forenoon with J. R. Sampson of Elgin, assistant to State Chief Engineer Lamb, to inspect the section in question.

That the gap was not ordered paved last week by State Supt. of Design H. E. Corman at the same time that orders were issued for completing of the other three gaps in this pavement is due to a mistake in the original map of the road. On the map the land across which the pavement goes is shown as a swamp, though, as a matter of fact, the soil is clay and not bog soil and the water only stands there for a short time in the spring. Acting under the belief that the place was swampy Supt. Corman issued orders that the gap be left for two years.

It is felt by all that failure to pave this strip for two years would work a great inconvenience to the people of the community as well as to the travelling public. The experience in other communities where gaps have been left has been such as to lead those interested to fear that, if the paving is not done now, it may not be completed for a number of years. This has been the case in other regions.

The F. W. Feutz Co. which is finishing the work thus far authorized on route 59 expects to move the equipment away this week. The contractors will return Nov. 15th and complete the paving, if permission of the state department is given and the necessary arrangements can be made.

Corman to Inspect Gap

At the meeting Monday plans were made to have Supt. Corman make an inspection of the sector and it is thought that, upon investigation, he will authorize the immediate completion of the strip. The work of filling and conditioning was completed some time ago, at the same time that the three strips last paved were prepared, and county and state highway officers who have inspected it are confident that the paving can be completed at this time.

Dr. Olcott Writes of Days When the Press Was Run by Hand

G. R. Olcott, now located at Junction City, Oregon, has been numbered among the members on the News' Honor Roll. Says Dr. Olcott in renewing his subscription, "I worked the old army press for J. J. Burke for the first paper ever printed in Antioch, so I think I am as old a subscriber as there is."

Dr. Olcott, who retired from the dental profession in Antioch several years ago and moved to Oregon was for many years a resident in the community. He was a friend of John J. Burke, the first owner and publisher of the paper, and was always willing to lend a hand. Hence he helped run the old hand press and won the distinction of being one of the force which published Volume I, Number 1, Copy 1, of the Antioch News.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS IN BRIEF

During the period from Jan. 1, 1925, to August 1, 1927, according to report issued by State Auditor Oscar Nelson, the state banking department, by careful effort and by securing better protection for depositors and other creditors in some instances through mergers, consolidations and liquidations, has managed to keep the number of banks forced to close their doors down to 37, of which the department was able through salvage and sale of assets to make full payment to creditors in 14 instances. Three were reorganized and reopened and 17 placed in receivership, while three are still in the hands of the department. Of the receiverships, eight have been the result of heavy deficiencies due to defalcations. Due to these causes, consolidations and the like, 106 banks ceased operation during the two and a half year period all of these with one exception being downstate banks. New charters were issued for 53 banks of which 41 were for associations organized to serve largely in suburban Chicago and rapidly growing communities adjacent thereto.

The state department of rehabilitation reports that it costs $218 to put a disabled man on a self-supporting basis as against approximately $300 spent each year for the maintenance of people in charitable institutions. At a total cost of $1433,178.00, four hundred seventy-two cases were restored and given remunerative occupations, making the per capita cost $303 which includes administration expense.

An order for a lease of the old Northwestern station by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad to Marshall Field and Company failed to get the approval of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The restraint holds up the construction of a $15,000,000 warehouse involving the air rights over railroad tracks. The building was to have extended over an area of three blocks above the tracks.

Abraham Lincoln Stanfield, state representative from the 22nd district, is dead, having attained the age of 67. Mr. Stanfield finished his seventh term in the general assembly July 1. He was first elected to the lower house in 1914. For the past two terms he has been chairman of the elections committee.

Attorney General Carlstrom has ruled that the county must keep state aid roads in repair, stating that they cannot be legally abandoned, in opinions delivered to State's Attorneys Walter S. Lamont, Paris, Edgar county, and P. N. Lewis, Lawrenceville, Lawrence county. Claiming that the state had failed to pay any portion of the maintenance on state aid roads, the Edgar county board of supervisors adopted resolutions to the effect that the county abandon the roads and turn them back to the state to be maintained by them. These resolutions are ineffectual, said Attorney General Carlstrom.

SHELL

Motorists

Now you can buy a superior gasoline at the regular price

The story of 400 "Extra Dry" is just this . . . Shell Gasoline has been greatly improved in quality, but the price to you remains unchanged.

Why 400 "Extra Dry" SHELL is Superior . . .
The Improved SHELL Way Takes only the Gasoline from the Crude

The old way (437° to 450° End Point)—the specification in general use—takes the gasoline from the crude with part of the heavier and less volatile elements.

The SHELL way (400° End Point) takes only the gasoline from the crude—producing a higher gravity gasoline—extra dry, clean-burning and wonderfully powerful and effective.

400 "Extra Dry" takes its name from the 400° End Point specification to which it is refined. Gasoline produced to meet this rigid test is "extra dry" . . . which means it is ALL gasoline . . . free from those greasy parts which do not atomize freely. Any 400° end point gasoline is recognized in the petroleum industry to be of premium standard and heretofore has commanded a higher price.

Shell Gasoline is now a premium fuel in everything but price. It contains only the most volatile elements of the crude . . . every drop vaporizes . . . every particle is converted into power . . . there are no impurities or heavy ends to pass by the pistons unburned and dilute the crankcase oil.

The quickest way to convince yourself that 400 "Extra Dry" Shell is no ordinary gasoline is to try it. Change to Shell today. Fill up the tank with this wonder fuel and put your car through its paces. You will speedily find that the merits of 400 "Extra Dry" Shell are more clearly apparent, more emphatic on the road than anything we can say on paper.

Speed when the opportunity presents . . . get-away that means minutes saved . . . acceleration that thrills and exhilarates . . . these are every-day experiences for the motorist who uses 100 "Extra Dry" Shell.

Shell Yellow-red Service Stations and Shell dealers at convenient locations are ready to supply you with this new Shell Gasoline at the regular price . . . not one cent extra for the extra quality it contains or the extra service it will render Four Lake county boys, John Griffin and Ted Kriner of Benton, Harry Amann of Fremont, and Harland Craft of Lake Villa, were selected as Lake county's quota in the annual State Fair school and will go to camp and school at the expense of the county. The boys are selected on the merit of high grades in school, either high school graduates or seniors, and their interest in farm work. They will be given an agricultural course at the State Fair. Under the direction of F. G. Hahn, state superintendent of schools.

Residents of the village of Libertyville have been greatly excited for the past few days over the appearance of a Rattle Snake which was first seen Tuesday afternoon in the yard at the rear of the Charles Sells home on Second street. Mrs. Sells was hanging clothes on a line in the rear yard when she heard a queer sound and turning she saw the snake coiled a few feet from her with its rattle sounding a warning. Hastily seizing her year old grandchild which had been playing on the spot occupied by the reptile, she ran into the house and gave the alarm. By the time help arrived the snake had disappeared and a thorough search of the premises was fruitless. Every possible hiding place was carefully searched but his snakeship had made a clean get away. On Thursday morning a workman passing down Cook avenue reported its reappearance near the village pumping station. He saw a dog barking at some object in the grass and heard a peculiar hissing sound. He says that he did not see the reptile but is convinced that it was a rattler.

Holy Name Society Gives Post-Nuptial Shower for Member

A very pretty shower was held at the Episcopal guild hall Monday evening when the young ladies of the Holy Cross guild of St. Ignace's tendered a post nuptial shower to Mr. and Mrs. M. McKinney.

The hall was beautifully decorated with white candles and roses. The evening was spent in playing "500" and dancing. The music for the evening was the gift of the orchestra, "The Red Peppers" composed of Robert Morley, Howard Gaston, Ed. Stream and Ed. Peters.

Late in the evening, after providing themselves with refreshments consisting of pink tea and assorted cakes, the guests formed in line and marched to the strains of Mendelssohn's famous music.

After supper the bride and groom opened the many beautiful and useful gifts presented them by the guests.

A group of 38, consisting of the members of the Holy Name society, their hostess, Mrs. J. J. Morley, and other invited friends of the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. M. McKinney, were present to congratulate the couple and wish them well.

Mrs. McKinney, who was Miss Pearl Monnier, was married last month at Libertyville to Mr. M. McKinney. They make their home in Antioch where the groom is employed at Harris restaurant.

Antioch Woman's Club Card Party Is Season's Big Event

The Woman's Club benefit party given at the Antioch Palace Monday afternoon proved to be one of the most successful social events of the season and netted the ladies a nice sum for their budget. Tickets were sold for 75 tables of Bridge, "500" and Bunco. Forty-two prizes were awarded, Mrs. E. M. Runyard of Waukegan and Huff Lake was the winner of the grand prize for the Bridge players.

During the party chances were sold on two prizes, a chair and a beautiful hand embroidered luncheon set and the two were raffled off at close of play. Late in the afternoon orange ice and assorted cakes were served.

That the party was a great success both financially and socially was felt by the Woman's club to be due to the splendid cooperation given the organization both by the ladies of the community and the summer residents.

The Woman's club is a local organization which, at the present time is devoting its energies in a large measure, to the maintenance of a public library. Beginning a few years ago they have built up a lending library of books, particularly for the use of the children of the community, and they are anxious to increase the scope and usefulness of the book service and to interest and enlist the assistance of everyone in the community in the venture.

ANTIOCH GROUP ARE DAKOTA VISITORS

Mrs. Selma Rhymer, Mrs. Adolph Pesat, Sr., Mrs. Adolph Pesat, Jr., and two children returned last Sunday evening from a two weeks visit at the home of the parents of Mrs. Pesat, Jr., in Sioux Falls, So. Dakota. They made the trip by auto and enjoyed very good roads, but found crop conditions poor, as they are badly in need of rain throughout the states of Iowa and southern South Dakota.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON FRANCINE'S THRIFT

As Helen settled herself in Aunt Emmy's big chair she said: "Jack Hunt has bought the Briggs place. I never was so astonished in my life. Jack didn't have a dollar when he married Francine and now he's bought a house."

"Well, my dear, it's not so surprising to me. Francine is responsible for their prosperity."

"Why, Aunt Emmy, I thought she was awfully frivolous. I remember how disappointed I was when Jack married her. She seemed entirely too pretty and too well dressed to be a good wife. When I dined at their house I thought she was frightfully extravagant about her table. She must have paid her cook a lot to have the food she served."

Aunt Emmy smiled. "I liked Francine from the first," she said. "She and I became good friends. She told me how worried she was because Jack did not seem to think of the future and never tried to save money. Everything about housekeeping was so new to her that she was glad to come to me with her little problems. I advised her to save regularly, no matter how hard it might be. She coaxed Jack to open an account at the bank for her household money. He thought it was silly because they had so little. She said she could keep more accurate accounts if she had a bank account. He said they didn't have enough to keep track of. She insisted she wanted to learn to keep accounts. Then when they got rich, she'd know how."

"I don't need to tell you how they prospered. Three of the sweetest children in the world, and now a house! Jack is proud as he can be."

"Yes," interrupted Helen, "but how did she do it?"

"The very first week after she started her checking account at the bank she took the money she saved and opened a savings account in the thrift department, where she got interest on her savings. You see, she was determined to save at least 10 per cent of her income. She saved steadily. She asked me to help her plan things out and together we worked out a budget so she could divide her income to meet her expenses. When her plan was working well she told Jack."

"He was tickled to death. Then he began to save too. Francine wanted a real home. They saved for that. They have been married six years now and they haven't a debt in the world. That excellent food, my dear, was all prepared by Francine herself, just as her pretty clothes are made by her from remnants and odds and ends she picks up at bargain prices."—A. H. Aymes.

Soldiers and Sailors of Civil War Hold Forty-ninth Reunion

The three surviving Antioch veterans of the Civil war, Homer Stevens, A. J. Felter and Joseph Haycock, attended the 49th annual reunion of Soldiers and Sailors of the Civil war at Waukegan last Thursday.

The veterans and their wives were the guests of honor at a dinner tendered them at noon by the ladies of the Waukegan Chapter of the W. R. C. At that time 28 members of the organization and 100 guests were present.

Following the dinner the organization was welcomed by Mayor Yager of Waukegan and by the president of the Waukegan post of the American Legion. The address of the afternoon was presented by Dr. Jesse of Grayslake and the Great Lakes Band provided patriotic music for the occasion. The meeting proved to be a very interesting one. Plans were made for the celebration of the 50th anniversary to be celebrated next year. In speaking of the meeting Mr. Homer Stevens, one of the members from Antioch said, "This is one of the best meetings that I have ever attended and much enthusiasm was displayed by the members over the plans for the grand jubilee to be held in 1928."

STATE CAPITAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Henry B. Rankin, childhood friend of Abraham Lincoln, and author of two books descriptive of the emancipator's life, died in Springfield, Aug. 14, having passed the age of 90 by a few months. As a young man he was a student in the law office of Lincoln and Herndon, but his friendship with the man who was to become president dated from the time Rankin was 10 years old.

"Bag worms" are the most prevalent of the insect pests which have damaged shade trees in Illinois this summer, according to reports received by State Forester H. B. Miller. A poison spray, made of arsenate of lead at the rate of three pounds to fifty gallons of water, can be used but this should be done in the spring, when the worm is hatching, as it is difficult to exterminate any other time. The bags can be picked from the limbs but this method is laborious and not very effective.

WHY WIDOWS ARE THE SPECIAL PREY OF CONFIDENCE MEN

By W. R. MOREHOUSE

Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

WOMEN are often easy victims for the high-pressure promoter. Widows are especially sought out by the confidence men. Even before their deceased husbands, protectors and counselors are buried the wolves of high finance are waiting outside their doors. They know the defenseless widows will be easy prey. Many a woman today is penniless as a result of making poor investments. "Getting rich quick" for the widow without investment experience is in reality getting poor quick. Once a sharp promoter gets the confidence of a rich widow he has a "Bonanza" as he calls it. Eventually he gets the estate and the widow gets the experience. Widows with estates should be on guard every minute. They are marked persons, with promotion crooks hot on their trail. The best thing that every woman investor can do is to consult her banker before investing.

Properly cut and set, crystals sparkle in realistic imitation of diamonds. The same is true in the field of finance. There is that which is fraudulent parading as the genuine. Don't buy investments simply because they sparkle. In the realm of wild-cat financing, fictitious credentials, testimonials, and references are employed to give setting and genuine appearance. Some are such rank imitations that they are easily recognized, but others defy detection except on the closest investigation by an expert. The only safe procedure is to investigate under competent advice.

Literally millions of dollars are lost to American savers annually as the outcome of buying into something—a fraudulent farm promotion, a business or a job that is nothing more or less than a set-up to catch suckers.

Often the savings of a lifetime are lost by buying unimproved farm lands with the understanding that the seller, or a service company promoted by him, will plant the farm to trees or vines, care for them, market the crop and turn the profits, which, it is promised, will be big, over to the owner. But this dream never comes true. The so-called guaranteed big profits are never realized. If people would only stop long enough to consider all angles of an offer like that before investing they would see the folly of plunging blindly into such a proposition. Let them ask themselves only this one question: "If it is true that such big profits are to be made, why is the seller so eager to part with his property, even to the extent of making it easy for a new owner to farm it?" The answer is that the land is not worth the selling price, nor will the profits derived from it be anywhere near as large as promised.

Buying into the fox business, the poultry business, the dairy business, or any kind of business is risky unless you deal with reliable persons or firms whose word is as good as gold. Watch the seller who is insistent in forcing a sale upon you. Look at his proposition from every angle. Just because he makes glowing promises is no assurance that he is not the world's champion exaggerator. Extravagant and exaggerated claims are the earmarks of the fake investment. If you want to go into farming or buy into a business, investigate before you invest. Write to the National Better Business Bureau, New York, or consult your local banker. If they are without information on your proposed investment, wait until they can get the facts and report to you. They have no interest at stake except to forestall crooked games.

ANTIOCH SLUGGERS TAG ALL BASES IN NO. CHICAGO CLASH

Defeat Johns-Manville in Fast Game With 14
to 5 Score

The Antioch baseball team proved it can come back after being walloped twice in succession by taking the Johns-Manville Fireaters into camp last Sunday by the score of 14 to 5. The local team showed a great reversal of form from the previous Sunday and played nearly errorless ball. Manager Lasco inserted a couple of high school infielders and they came through in good style. Nixon, all-around athletic star of the local high school, at second base and Ruddy Strametz at third base worked fine with Bill Steininger between them. The addition of these two players should give Antioch a good infield the rest of the season, a place where they previously have been weak due to so many changes when players were absent or pitching.

Morley Pitches Strong Game
Morley pitched a strong game for the locals. Although hit fairly hard the first 4 innings he settled down and retired the visiting sluggers nearly in order the last 5 innings, only 2 men reaching first. Anderson led the hitting for the losers with 3 singles.

Sullivan, Hardin and Simpson were the best hitters for Antioch, getting 10 hits between them. Of the nine players starting the game 8 crossed the scoring place at least once, while Lasco scored three times, which shows that nearly every man did his bit on offense. Mannebach featured in the defensive for Waukegan, starting both a double and a triple play.

Simpson, Sullivan, and Lasco all made some good catches for Antioch while Strametz made a great stop of a hot ground and retired his man at first for the final out of the game. The Antioch boys played heads up all the way, playing lots of "inside stuff."

Slovak A. C. to be Here Next
Next Sunday the Slovak A. C. of North Chicago will play the last league game at the Antioch park and with both teams fighting for third place a hot battle should result. Antioch defeated them 6 to 4 earlier in the season but will have to play real ball to win this time.

On Labor Day, Sept. 5, the Antioch boys will travel to Barrington to battle the town team there. From reports, they have a real team, having lost only 3 games this year. Van Densen, their star southpaw pitcher, is a former league satellite who will attempt to still the Big Bat of Antioch. Willie Sheehan, a former Antioch High and Lake Forest College star, is one of the star performers for Barrington. It is hoped a good crowd will accompany the team and lend it lots of vocal support.

Although the Antioch boys have played good baseball most of the year, winning nearly two thirds of their games, the team has lacked the support of the fans of the vicinity and thus far the boys have failed to make expenses. The business men outfitted the team with new uniforms and now the fans are urged to come out to the final games of the season and thus indicate that they want a team next year.

Winners to go to Detroit

Whether or not the Antioch boys will play in the Lake County Amateur League next year has not been decided, but it is felt that, with the organization built up this year and the experience gained, the boys would have a good prospect of coping off the championship another year and with it the honor of making the trip to the National Tournament, which is an annual event. The Tournament this year is to be held at Detroit, the week beginning Sept. 10. The trip is a fitting reward for the winning team and offers a chance of breaking into big league ball to the players of the smaller leagues. Several of the players of last year's winning team are now members of various teams in the American association while their star pitcher is now with the Cincinnati Reds. The West Side A. C. with a percentage of .875 and a record of 14 wins to 2 losses are leaders in the Lake County league this year and will undoubtedly be the league's representative at the tournament.

LOCAL 4H MEMBERS HAVE THEIR DAY

Boys and Girls of the Community
Win Many Prizes at Aurora
Exposition

Local boys and girls of the 4H Poultry club exhibited 38 of their best birds at the Central States Exposition at Aurora last week, winning eight blue, five red, and two white ribbons. This was the best showing made by any club in the state and is certainly a record of which the community is proud.

Gordon Martin and Maurice Bown, who are students at Antioch High School won second honors in the 4H demonstration contest. They demonstrated before a fairly large audience, the cooperative method of marketing eggs and did well, being defeated only by the Kane county boys who demonstrated butter making. The win entitles them to a free trip to the University of Illinois next June (1928) where they will be taken on a tour of the University. The order of the placings in this contest by counties was as follows: Kane, Lake, LaSalle, Lee, DuPage. Winners in the poultry exhibit were: Homer Edwards, winning

Visit Antioch After Absence of 61 Years

Mrs. David Otto of Ionia, Michigan, and Mrs. J. H. Lapo of Portland, Michigan, were in the city yesterday and this morning viewing the scenes of their youth. Mrs. Otto was formerly Frankie Peppard and lived with her uncle, W. H. Devine, in a house which stood where the Bartlett oil station is now located. Mrs. Lapo was Alice Campbell and lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell at Bluff Lake. The ladies are cousins. Neither of them had been back to Antioch since leaving here 61 years ago.

In speaking of Antioch as they remembered it the ladies recalled the day when there was no railroad here and the only sidewalk in the village was in front of the Shepherd store and was considered quite a luxury. At the time they lived here Mr. Campbell owned all of the land around Bluff Lake and summer property values were a thing unknown. "In those days," said Mrs. Otto, "people from Chicago used to come out to fish in the lakes around Antioch, but about the only things we ever thought of selling to them were the angleworms that the small boys used to dig for fish bait. In those days the village boasted of a Baptist church which stood where the

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—From the comfortable social situation to which he had been born, Peter Milman, American gentleman of the old school, and last of his family, is practically reduced to paucity through the misfortune of his friend, Hazen Brewer, whom he had unwisely trusted.

CHAPTER II.—Learning of the destruction of his last hope, Milman engages a French tutor, Achille Luty, who speaks no English, and is to rapscallion, servant of long standing. By Luty, Milman sends letters to Prof. Fleming Bradley, Floyd Malet and Neeland Barnes, men whom the world has classed as failures, one of high position, in response, the three call on him at his home.

CHAPTER III.—After an excellent dinner Milman utters his guests into the Japanese garden, where, after each has related the circumstances which wrecked their careers, he convinces them their misfortunes are directly traceable to the machinations of an unseen, unscrupulous enemy, a man who had risen to high financial position and political power by underhand methods, obsequious blackmail, Paul Raxon. Raxon also ruined Brewer, and incidentally Milman.

"If enough mud is thrown at a man, no matter how innocent he is, some of it will stick. I have long since abandoned any hope of being whitewashed. In a sense, the equipment of the sculptor is expensive. If I were a painter, it would be a different thing. There is no institution to endow broken, middle-aged men."

"It is for that reason I asked you all to come here," Milman answered. "You don't understand? Gentlemen, I am a broken middle-aged man. In Hazen Brewer's failure my entire fortune went. I mortgaged this house to help him. Out of the wreck I may save enough to live in a couple of humble rooms for the rest of my life. We are all in the same boat, all four of us victims to Paul Raxon's whims."

"You," Neeland Barnes cried. "You had all sorts of money, I thought."

"I have none now. That is hardly true. I have enough to live on in this house for three months. Then the mortgage will fall due. There will be an auction sale and an end of the New York Milmans," he paused—unless—

"Unless what?" Bradley demanded.

"You complained a few minutes ago, and justly, that I had listened to your confidences and given none of my own. Very well. You shall hear me now. To begin with, I am prepared to abandon the conventions and habits of a lifetime in order to keep this home of mine. I was born here, and I wish, when my eyes are to close forever, to die here. I have suffered disappointments in my earlier life that have not made me anxious to go about and be pointed out as the Peter Milman whose wife ran away from him. My life is here. I cannot face the world with equanimity after these solitary years where never an unwelcome person came to disturb me."

Of the three watching him, Neeland Barnes was conscious of the deepest depression. Milman had brought him here under false pretenses. All those dreams of future prosperity were idle ones. The man was almost as down and out as he himself. He must go back and try to persuade Lippesky to let him live rent free until something turned up. There was always Milman's hundred to hold against the bad day. "Well," said Neeland Barnes, almost sympathetically, "what are you going to do about it?"

Peter Milman's answer amazed them all. It was given in a way where doubt had no part. He was confident without being assertive.

"I am going to get my money back from Raxon," he said.

"But you have said he's above the law," Bradley retorted.

"And I mean it. I had not thought of invoking that sort of law. There is an older one."

Malet looked at him in sudden comprehension. Long since he had seen something iron behind the smile of the well-bred host. This was not any longer merely a quiet, middle-aged gentleman who faced them. It was an avenger. Malet wondered the others did not see Milman as he did, Captain Oliver come to life again.

"Don't you see," he explained. "Mr. Milman means that he is going to get Raxon somehow, law or no law? The whole thing was now plainly discernible to him."

To Barnes it seemed that madness had seized upon the recluse of Fifth Avenue. Peter Milman represented to him all the conventions of an established order, an order which frowned upon the ways of adventurers.

"One man wouldn't have a chance against Raxon," he exclaimed. "Besides that, Mr. Milman isn't that sort of a man."

"My dear sir," said Milman, and there was a queer smile on his face, "for what purpose do you suppose I have invited to my house three men who might, but for Paul Raxon, have been rich and famous? Was it merely coincidental that you three should have been 'his victims,' while I made up a fourth?"

Peter Milman was by all odds the calmest of them all. Even Bradley, the slowest to be influenced, experienced an emotion of excitement.

"The only point now to be decided," Peter Milman went on, "is whether or not you will join me." He looked from one to the other of them with that curiously steady gaze of his. It was the expression that Captain Oliver had lent him, an expression which would have been a puzzle to those who had known him well in other days. "Well, gentlemen, what is it to be?"

CHAPTER V

Peter Milman leaned against the corner of the Colonial mantelpiece of cream marble and looked at his guests with no undue eagerness. He might have been proposing a game of billiards or auction bridge.

For the moment none of them could estimate with any exactness just what risks he was asking them to run. They knew only that this man of blameless life, distinguished family and assured social position was calmly proposing to engage them in a conspiracy to take from Paul Raxon some of those many dollars his unscrupulous conduct had won.

"Naturally," Milman continued, "you are too much surprised to have your answers ready. You cannot believe that I am serious. Or you may think for unguessed reasons that I am trying to trap you into damaging admissions. I repeat in all seriousness that I am ruined. I have some inconsiderable assets which may be untouched, but all the things in this house of value—and there are many—will be sold because Paul Raxon ruined my closest friend. And he murdered him, gentlemen." Milman's voice was sterner now. "Raxon has brought me to an impoverished and friendless end. Unless I struggle against it, I shall join those unnumbered victims his career has created. My proposition is most certainly a reasonable one. Since Paul Raxon by illegal means—or, let me say, inequitable means—has brought us to what we are and driven my dear friend to a suicide's grave, I purpose to pool our abilities and enthusiasms and make him pay something in return."

Milman's remarks were addressed mainly to Bradley. He was assured of Barnes, and he had seen an eagerness about Floyd Malet. It was Fleming Bradley who was frowning.

"This is too important a thing to settle offhand," said Milman. "You will, of course, spend the night here. Your rooms are ready for you. I will say only this: If you want proofs that Raxon is the cause of your troubles, I cannot give them. He is not the sort of man who can be convicted by any ordinary process. If you want my word of honor as a gentleman that I am certain he is to blame, I give it to you readily."

Milman pushed the button that summoned Achille Luty. It was plain he wished no further discussion. Only Bradley made a protest.

"I'm in evening dress. I can't go back to the works like this tomorrow morning."

"I do not think you will ever go back there," Peter Milman said, smiling. "It may be that you think otherwise and will miss a day. If I have provided you against monetary loss, come, gentlemen, be my guests tomorrow."

"I wonder," said Neeland Barnes. "If I could have just a little brandy? I'm a bit excited with what you have said, and I'd like to make sure of a few hours' sleep. 'Thank you,' when Achille had been sent for the cognac."

"Count on me tomorrow and the day after and as long as you like. If any half-spitting, moralizing coward tries to persuade himself that he hasn't got a grievance against Paul Raxon, let him go home, set the alarm, get up at daybreak and punch the clock when the whistle blows."

At the moment Neeland Barnes felt there was nothing he would so much like as swinging his right across to the point of Bradley's jaw. Barnes considered that he stood in the light of Milman's champion. He owed a duty to so generous a host.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," said Peter Milman. "Please do not quarrel. Professor Bradley has risen superior to personal animities. He has forgiven Raxon. I confess that I have not."

Bradley looked coldly at Neeland Barnes.

"Mr. Barnes," he said, "has courage, and a tendency to quarrel. Most men have. It requires greater courage to estimate the risks of such an undertaking as this and then enter it without heat or rancor. I am not a coward morally or physically; and if Mr. Barnes thinks so, he is as good as judge of men as he is of the condition he owes a fellow-guest."

"My fault, my fault entirely," Barnes murmured. He had seen in Bradley's eyes no trace of fear. He was conscious that old New York had not performed according to traditional form. "Noblesse oblige," he added suddenly. "A little excited." He waved an arm which included the whole of the luxurious room. "Sudden change from a hotel furnished by a man called Lippesky. Went to my head. Haven't been inside a decent house for years." He was relieved when Bradley smiled at him.

"It is late," said Peter Milman, "so I think we had better arrange to breakfast together at nine. You will find night-gear and dressing gowns in your rooms."

He shook them each by the hand. Bradley had the feeling of being sent to bed like a child. He did not get into bed when he had changed. He lighted his pipe and flung himself into a big chair. He was no less excited in his own way than Neeland Barnes. There was something under the courteous exterior of Peter Milman which he had not yet solved. Was the veiled promise to reinstate him the result of some belief or a madman's vision of victory? He knew nothing about Peter Milman.

Bradley's room was separated from that occupied by Floyd Malet by a bathroom. He rapped at the door, and was bidden to enter.

"Sorry to bother you," said Bradley, "but I'd like to discuss this thing with you. I'll admit the thing obsesses me entirely. Selfishly, I'm bound to say. My life has only one love, and that's my work. If I thought there really was a chance of being able to get control of a physical laboratory again, independent of outside interference and authorized to insure continuous experimentation, there is nothing I would not do."

Floyd Malet did not speak for a little while. Very much the same thoughts had passed through his own mind. "I don't mind saying," he remarked, "that my present existence is so distasteful that prison has no horrors for me."

THE FARMER'S BEST WAY OUT

Dean Russell of Wisconsin College of Agriculture says: "Two things have hit the farmer hard but the same things have hit business. They are increase in cost of production and decline in prices which latter has been more drastic in farm products than manufactured products. The farmer's political friends say salvation can be found through legislation. Our legislative doctors propose price control. The difficulty with this is price control always means price elevation which always produces expansion in production and if this occurs without expansion in consumption you have inevitable decline in prices. The remedy works to produce the very opposite result from that intended.

"Another legislative panacea would make it easier to borrow, as it running into debt was the solution of the difficulty. There are farmers who wish it had not been quite so easy to borrow because the inevitable day comes when they have to pay principal and interest. The third legislative remedy would make easier the pathway for cooperative endeavor. All you have to do is to wave the magic wand 'Cooperation' and all the farmer's difficulties will immediately disappear. I wonder if there is any government that can make people cooperate. The success of cooperative effort will lie in organization from the bottom up rather than from the top down and it will take a decade or two for the results to be felt.

"The farmers have at hand a remedy that can be utilized immediately with the definite knowledge that it will secure far better results if they will take a leaf out of present day business methods they will have relief in agriculture they will not have to wait for. Business has suffered the same as the farmer, yet business came through in a way that is far ahead of the farmer. This has been brought about through industrial efficiency, through improvement of methods. They have increased labor output per unit to the degree the costs of production have actually been reduced by better methods of carrying on work. Industrial enterprises on a large scale are spending millions on research. In ten years automobile output per worker has increased 172 per cent, tires 211 per cent, oil 83 per cent, cement 61 per cent.

"Compare that with others. The packers have increased only 27 per cent, sugar refining 23 per cent, boots and shoes only 6 per cent. There has been an increase in agriculture since 1913 of 20 per cent. It is doubtful that business has any such opportunity as exists in agriculture to reduce cost of production through improved methods. Take corn, Iowa shows a variation in cost of production from fifteen cents to seventy-five cents a bushel. In Illinois the cost of producing corn on 80 acre fields was reduced from fifty-two cents to twenty cents a bushel. The manufacturer who had it within his power to reduce production costs from fifty-two to thirty cents per unit would be tickled to death with the opportunity of meeting competition under these conditions.

"The way out for the farmer is (1) to become a business man, (2) to adopt business methods, to adapt himself to the same kind of conditions and be as efficiently mobile as is our manufacturer or our business man in the ordinary channels of his trade, (3) to rely less upon political promises and more upon individual initiative, (4) to work toward co-operative endeavor, but in the meantime not to wait for cooperative endeavor to solve all of these problems because individually he can do something at the present time."

MRS. ISABEL CAREY OF WILMOT DIES AT KENOSHA HOSPITAL

Prominent in Social and Religious Life of the Community

Mrs. Isabel Carey, 69, widow of the late Walter Carey, for many years owner and operator of the Carey Mill and Carey Electric company of Wilmot, died Sunday morning, Aug. 17th, at 8:30 at the Kenosha hospital after a long illness from a complication of diseases.

Recently a transfusion of blood operation has been resorted to in an effort to save her life, at which time James Carey, one of her sons, gave of his blood in an effort to aid in the fight the mother was making to regain her health. The operation for a time appeared to have been successful but a few days ago, Mrs. Carey suffered a relapse from which in her weakened condition she could not rally.

She was born in Fond du Lac October 27, 1858, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery, pioneer residents of that community. Her father died when she was a child and she came with her mother to Chicago, where she received her early education. Later she was a student at the St. Vincent DePaul convent school and then completed her education at the Chicago Normal school.

For several years she was a teacher in the schools of McHenry, Ill., where she was most successful in this work. On May 7, 1884, she was united in marriage to Walter Carey. They made their home for several years at English Prairie, in McHenry county moving to Wilmot in 1899, where she has since resided.

Mrs. Carey had been a leader in the work of the women of the Holy Name church at Wilmot for many years. She was a member of the St. Ann society and also of the Catholic Woman's club, the latter of Kenosha. She had been active in the civic and social affairs of the Wilmot community and of the entire county. She is survived by two sons and four daughters: Mrs. W. Dohy, Quincy, Ill.; the Misses Grace, Ermine and Blanche Carey, of Wilmot, and James and Irving Carey, also of Wilmot. There are four grandchildren: Eugene Dohy, of Quincy, Ill.; Anna Marie, Catherine Isabel and Patricia Jean Carey of Wilmot. One brother, James Montgomery, resides at Kilbourne, Wis.

Funeral services were held at the Holy Name church on Wednesday, August 17, with solemn requiem high mass. The Reverend Father Joseph Drasky, pastor of the Holy Name church, officiated with Reverend Father Malone, of the St. Thomas church of Kenosha, Reverend Father McGinty, of the St. James church, Kenosha, and the Reverend Father Lynch of Antioch, assisting.

Interment was made in the family plot in the Holy Name cemetery at Wilmot.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Carey of S. Bend, Indiana, were in Antioch over the week end, the guests of Mrs. Carey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Radtke.

ST. LOUIS CITIZEN IS KILLED AT VOLO

Fred Drach of St. Louis died on Tuesday, August 6th, in the Lake County General hospital at the result of injuries he sustained when he was struck by a Chevrolet coupe, driven by Stanley Redmer of Chicago. The accident occurred near Volo.

Drach had been visiting relatives in that neighborhood and was himself responsible for the accident, having stepped directly in the path of the oncoming car. A coroner's jury exonerated Redmer of all blame.

Arthur Hadlock, Oph. Registered Optometrist of Chicago, will be here Sunday, Aug. 27. If you wish your eyes fitted with a pair of correct glasses please call at this date.
